

HONEY SALES

Bee Wild Honey invites you to experience the delightful flavours of our raw, unprocessed honey. Bee Wild Honey prides itself on ethical beekeeping. Our honey is untreated, unheated and as natural as it was in the comb.

Our hives are based in the Cape Floral region of South Africa. The bees forage on natural flora such as fynbos, wild flowers and eucalyptus. We also collaborate with likeminded beekeepers.

Honey is extracted from the hive Honey Supers, in a centrifugal honey extractor, before being tapped into large settling tanks and allowed to clarify.

The honey is then tapped into smaller tanks before being bottled and packaged for sale.

At Bee Wild Honey, we are passionate about our bees, their health, safety and sustainability. Every hive is carefully managed for growth, disease control and resource availability.

As we live in a province where forage is not readily available for our bees all year round, we need to be cognisant of ensuring that we continue to plant high pollen and nectar value plants and trees. Honey is a by-product of good beekeeping practices.

Honey is renowned for its health benefits. Our honey does not have any additional ingredients and is antibiotic free. We are also aware of our role in protecting our environment and as such, do not use single use plastics in our bottling process.

Bee Wild Honey hives are based in the Western Cape, and so the honey they produce is as local as you'll ever get. Please support your local beekeeper!
